Introduction

This letter follows the extensive discussions we had before Christmas regarding the refinement of the Crown's proposed settlement package. I and my colleagues the Prime Minister and the Minister of Maori Affairs would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your team for the highly constructive engagement on these challenging issues.

I acknowledge both Kurahaupō's desire to move quickly to finalise the Crown's offer and the importance of completing this settlement, and those of the other Te Tau Ihu groups, for the region and for the country. I consider it important not only to honour the commitments of the Crown in respect of Treaty settlements but also, as a matter of good faith to Māori, to maintain momentum and continue progress wherever possible.

I would therefore now like to make a formal offer on behalf of the Crown for consideration by Kurahaupō. This offer contains the redress that the Crown is willing to provide in settlement of all historical claims of Ngāti Apa ki Te Ra To, Rangitāne o Wairau and Ngāti Kuia for breaches of the Treaty of Waitangi. This is the Crown's best and final offer and has been approved by Cabinet on 20 January 2009.

If Kurahaupō accept the offer outlined in this letter I invite you to counter-sign it. This letter will then take effect as an Agreement in Principle between the Crown and Kurahaupō. The next step will be for the parties to develop the necessary detail to give effect to the redress set out in this offer, and to translate that detail into a Deed of Settlement.

I wish to emphasise that the regional approach taken to the negotiations with the three mandated groups with interests in Te Tau Ihu has enabled the Crown to offer the redress outlined in this letter. I am confident that this regional approach remains the best way forward at this stage to resolve the outstanding issues relating to redress.

I note that there are some residual issues to be resolved including redress items that require allocation or agreement between the three mandated Te Tau Ihu groups. Following the signing of this letter by both parties, I intend to write to you again setting out a suggested process for determining that allocation and seeking your agreement to it. My intention in developing that process will be to ensure that any remaining interdependent issues between the three mandated groups are addressed as a first priority.

Elements of Crown's Offer

The Crown's offer is made up of the following three broad elements:

- (a) Historical Accounts, Crown Acknowledgements and Crown Apologies for each iwi comprising Kurahaupō (Ngāti Apa ki Te Ra To, Rangitāne o Wairau and Ngāti Kuia);
- (b) Commercial and Financial Redress; and
- (c) Cultural Redress.

These three elements are discussed in more detail below.

Historical Accounts, Crown Acknowledgements and Crown Apologies

The historical accounts, Crown acknowledgments and Crown apologies will outline the basis on which the Crown is settling the historical claims.

The historical accounts will outline the historical relationship between the Crown and Kurahaupō. On the basis of the historical accounts, the Crown will acknowledge that certain actions or omissions of the Crown were a breach of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles. The Crown will then offer apologies to Kurahaupō for the acknowledged breaches of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.

I note that the Crown and Kurahaupō have largely agreed upon a provisional historical account (Attachment One). This provisional historical account will form the basis for the development of the iwi-specific historical accounts, the acknowledgments and the apologies for inclusion in the Deed of Settlement. Attachment One also contains draft Crown Acknowledgements which will be the subject of further discussion between the Crown and Kurahaupō.

Commercial and Financial Redress

I attach a summary of the financial and commercial redress offer as Attachment Two to this letter.

I acknowledge the importance of the Woodbourne airbase redress to securing Kurahaupō's agreement to the Crown's offer. I have engaged in discussions with the Minister of Defence on this redress, and those discussions reflect the proposal to purchase land and improvements at Woodbourne Airbase (see Map 28 in Attachment Nine) put to me by Kurahaupō.

Cultural Redress

I attach a summary of the cultural redress offer as Attachment Three to this letter.

This offer includes a commitment to support discussions between Kurahaupō and Ngāi Tahu in relation to the Ngāi Tahu takiwā. My expectation is that any proposals to address this issue will be non-financial in character.

Conditions of the Crown's Offer

As you are aware, the Crown's offer was approved by Cabinet on 20 January 2009 but the Deed of Settlement is subject to ratification by Kurahaupō and the approval of relevant Ministers and Cabinet.

I attach as Attachment Four the key definitions, terms and conditions that apply to the Crown's offer.

Claimant Funding

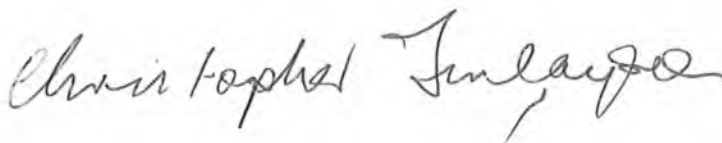

As you are aware the Crown has approved an additional amount of $100,000.00 as claimant funding for Kurahaupō. I understand that this additional claimant funding has been made available to Kurahaupō.

Next Steps

As noted above, I invite you to counter-sign this letter, which will then take effect as an Agreement in Principle between the Crown and Kurahaupō. The next step will be for the parties to work towards a Deed of Settlement.

If Kurahaupō accept this offer, I am confident that both sides will continue to work together in good faith. I will prioritise this settlement in the work programme for the Office of Treaty Settlements, and instruct officials to draft a Deed of Settlement and settlement Bill concurrently with a view to settlement legislation being enacted by the end of 2009.

PROVISIONAL HISTORICAL ACCOUNT AND CROWN
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Provisional Historical Account

1. Ngāti Apa, Rangitāne and Ngāti Kuia (the Kurahaupō iwi) have resided in Te Tau Ihu o Te Waka a Maui (the northern South Island or the prow of the waka of Maui) for generations. They established themselves as tangata whenua through conquest, intermarriage and assimilation with the tribes they found residing in the district, including Ngāti Tumatakokiri, and the maunga and awa in the region are the source of stories and whakatauki and in some cases embody their tupuna.
2. Kurahaupō iwi occupied and used the resources of the entire region, including the extensive interior through which they established numerous trails and pathways. They used the resources of the large Wairau (Vernon) Lagoons complex. They occupied and fished in Te Hoiere (the Pelorus area) and had large cultivations at Waimea, near Wakatu (Nelson). Fish and shellfish were taken along the coastline. The Marlborough Sounds were particularly valued for kaimoana. Other areas such as the Mahitahi (Maitai) Valley (near Nelson) were used seasonally for mahinga kai or for the mining of pakohe (argillite) Kurahaupō iwi gathered and traded pounamu.
3. Kurahaupō iwi have strong whakapapa inter-connections and their territories were linked by a well-used system of trails across the interior, which formed conduits for trade and contact with other groups. The Nelson Lakes formed the hub of this extensive network of trails, which linked the Wairau, Te Hoiere (Pelorus), Wakatu (Nelson), Waimea, Te Tai Aorere (Tasman Bay), Te Taitapu (Golden Bay), and Kawatiri (Buller) districts. As at 1820, the Kurahaupō iwi held authority over and exclusive possession of Te Tau Ihu.
4. Iwi from the North Island began emigrating to Te Tau Ihu in the 1820s. They first came as a result of a tuku (gift with reciprocal rights) by the Kurahaupō chief, Tutepourangi, of the land between Te Matau (Separation Point) and Anatoto (Clay Point). The tuku also included Rangitoto (D'Urville Island). Soon after Tutepourangi's tuku an alliance of North Island iwi invaded Te Tau Ihu. They established customary rights by conquest (raupatu), followed by occupation (residence or seasonal visits and resource use). They strengthened their rights through intermarriage with Kurahaupō.
5. [Further text to be developed].
6. In 1840 some Kurahaupō were living in tributary communities near the coast while others remained unconquered in the interior. Although they no longer had exclusive possession of all their territory and complete independence of action, Kurahaupō retained their tribal structures, chiefly lines and ancestral connections to the land.
7. In Māori society a tributary condition did not result in the loss of all rights forever. As such there was room for the recovery of status and the revived exercise of rights as British rule began to take effect after 1840. The British found that Kurahaupō chiefs such as Ihaia Kaikoura at Port Underwood, Hura Kopapa at Kaituna and Puaha te Rangi on the West Coast repeatedly sought to have their autonomy recognised. In 1840 the Kurahaupō rangatira, Ihaia Kaikōura, signed the Treaty of Waitangi at Horahora Kakahu Island in Port Underwood together with eight chiefs from other iwi.

Investigation of Pre-Treaty New Zealand Company Purchase

8. The first significant European attempt to buy land in Te Tau Ihu took place in 1839. A private British land settlement company, the New Zealand Company, entered into two transactions with northern iwi that purported to include the entire northern South Island. Kurahaupō were not consulted. Before and during the Treaty debates in 1840 the Crown promised that all land transactions prior to 14 January 1840 would be investigated by a Land Claims Commission. If the transactions were deemed to be fair and equitable, the Crown would grant land to the purchaser. If not, the land would revert to Māori.

9. The New Zealand Company entered into discussions about its land claims with the British Government in mid-1840. The discussions proceeded on an assumption that the New Zealand Company's purchases were valid, and agreement was reached in November 1840 that the company would surrender all its land claims to the Government. In return the Government would grant the company four acres of land for every pound spent. Despite this agreement, the British Government still expected the Land Claims Commission to inquire into the equity of the company's claims. By the time word of the November 1840 agreement reached New Zealand, it was clear to Lieutenant-Governor William Hobson that there were serious problems with the company's purchases.
10. The first settlers arrived in Te Tau Ihu at Nelson in February 1842 and began taking up land, which created pressure on the Crown to resolve the company's land claims. Land Claims Commissioner William Spain began his inquiry into the company's Te Tau Ihu claims in June 1842 by hearing evidence from the company officials who had negotiated the deeds affecting Te Tau Ihu. In 1843 Spain heard from some of the North Island chiefs who had signed the Company's deeds.
11. Due to difficulties in resolving company claims in other areas, Spain's inquiries only shifted to Te Tau Ihu in July 1844. He initially sent his interpreter, Edward Meurant, to the area to ascertain the views of resident Māori about the deeds affecting their land. Meurant visited Motueka, Wakatū (Nelson) and Croiselles (a harbour north east of Nelson) but does not appear to have consulted Kurahaupō who were resident in the area at the time.
12. Spain himself commenced hearings at Nelson on 19 August 1844. Spain's inquiries in other districts meant that he was reasonably informed on Māori custom although he did not apply his knowledge of the importance of occupation in drawing his conclusions in his Nelson inquiry. Spain did not take any evidence from Kurahaupō representatives before suspending his hearings, although they were present in Nelson.
13. Spain suspended the inquiry when the company requested that the Crown adopt the arbitration process that it had used in other areas. However Spain asked only the northern iwi to participate in the negotiations he arbitrated because he believed they were the dominant group in Nelson.
14. The Crown wanted to secure settlers' titles to the land they had purchased from the New Zealand Company. The Crown agreed that the company could negotiate with a referee for Māori, appointed by the Government, with a view to agreeing how much additional compensation the company might pay Māori to complete its inchoate purchases. Spain was instructed to arbitrate these negotiations. He was directed to do all he could to help the company complete its purchases but his instructions also contemplated that Māori consent would be required for the company's purchases to be completed.
15. As a result an additional payment was made to North Island iwi resident in Te Tau Ihu who signed deeds of release on 24 August 1844. Although they were not involved in the negotiations with the company, it is recorded that some Kurahaupō were given a share of the payment by one of the northern iwi. Spain subsequently recommended an award to the company of 151,000 acres.

Tenths

16. The New Zealand Company's original scheme for European settlement provided that one tenth of all land sold to settlers would be reserved for Māori. The November 1840 agreement provided for the Crown to take over the responsibility for carrying out the company's reserve arrangements. While the company's deeds for Te Tau Ihu did not precisely articulate the proportion of land the company intended reserving for Māori, Spain was instructed to include all pa and cultivations, as well as one tenth of the land that was sold to settlers in his recommendations for land awards to Māori.
17. Spain recommended that tenths reserves be set aside for Māori in the land the company received. Under Spain's determination, Kurahaupō were ineligible to receive any benefit from these tenths. The Native Land Court investigated the ownership of the tenths in 1892. Meihana Kereopa and other Kurahaupō representatives provided evidence that Kurahaupō remained in occupation of land in Tasman Bay, including Wakatū, and that Kurahaupō retained the associated customary rights until that land was awarded to the New Zealand Company. The Court placed greater weight on evidence disputing Kurahaupō rights to the tenths.
18. Members of Kurahaupō iwi were excluded from the income and other benefits derived from the tenths reserves.

Crown Purchasing and Te Waipounamu Purchase

19. Crown agents attempted to purchase most of the remaining Māori land in Te Tau Ihu between 1847 and 1853 in the Wairau, Waitohi, Pakawau, and Te Waipounamu purchases. Kurahaupō were not party to any of these transactions and they were instead negotiated solely with the other iwi. The 1853 Te Waipounamu deed nevertheless recognised Rangitāne as conjoint owners.
20. The Te Waipounamu purchase was an 'omnibus' transaction in which the Government aimed to acquire all unsold land in Te Tau Ihu. It was negotiated in Porirua in August 1853 with a northern iwi. It was intended at this time that Donald McLean, a Crown land purchase agent, would come to Te Tau Ihu to pay resident Māori a share of the purchase money.
21. However McLean did not come to Te Tau Ihu to pay Kurahaupō until January 1856. Some Kurahaupō leaders had strongly asserted their right to independently decide about the sale of their land. In this context the Government concluded that it had to negotiate separate deeds and receipts with Ngāti Kuia and Rangitāne.
22. During negotiations in January and February 1856 McLean pressured Kurahaupō with the assertion that the land had been sold by those who had already signed the Te Waipounamu deed. McLean's ruthlessly expedient stance left Kurahaupō in a very weak negotiating position in the matter of price and reserves. Rangitāne and Ngāti Kuia were each paid a total of £100 for their interests. The reserves granted by the Crown to Kurahaupō iwi were wholly inadequate. At 1856 there were around 219 Māori living at Pelorus and in the Wairau. A Crown official later estimated that the reserves agreed to for Pelorus and Wairau Māori in 1856 contained some 1,530 acres (or seven acres for each person) that was suitable for agricultural use. The paucity of the Kurahaupō reserves made effective participation in the new economy impossible.

23. McLean is also likely to have assured Māori that they would derive significant collateral economic advantages from the growth of European settlement around them. Rangitāne and Ngāti Kuia believed they would receive collateral benefits from participating in the transactions.
24. The Crown did not recognise or negotiate with Ngāti Apa for their interests in areas covered in the Te Waipounamu purchase. At that time some Ngāti Apa lived at Te Taitapu, and on the northern West Coast. A generation passed before Ngāti Apa were able to present evidence of their customary interests in western Te Tau Ihu at the Te Taitapu title investigation in 1883.
25. In 1860 the Crown Chief Land Purchase Commissioner, James Mackay, purchased the Arahura (West Coast) block. Puaha te Rangi, a senior Kurahaupō rangatira, was present at the purchase negotiations. Puaha te Rangi demanded the recognition of Ngāti Apa rights, which was acceded to by Ngāi Tahu and the Crown. Ngāti Apa received a share of the £300 purchase price and 424 acres of occupation reserves in and near Kawatiri (Westport). A later judicial inquiry described the 424 acres of occupation reserves as the 'bare minimum which the owners could be induced to accept'.

The Native Land Court

26. Due to the large purchases of Māori land by the Crown and the New Zealand Company between 1839 and 1860 most Māori titles in Te Tau Ihu were not determined by the Native Land Court. However, the later introduction of native land legislation had considerable implications for the reserve lands that Kurahaupō had been awarded and those lands not included in earlier purchases. Under the Native Land Acts of 1862 and 1865 the Crown established the Native Land Court to determine the owners of Māori land "according to native custom" and to convert customary title into title derived from the Crown. The Native Land Acts also set aside the Crown's pre-emptive right of land purchase, and gave named owners, the same rights as other property owners to lease and to sell their lands to private parties - or the Crown.

27. The Native Land Acts introduced a fundamental change to the Māori land tenure system. Customary tenure was generally able to accommodate the multiple and overlapping interests of different iwi and hapū to the same piece of land but effective participation in the post 1840 economy required clear land boundaries and certainty of ownership. The Court fixed boundaries of discreet blocks of land, and awarded rights in them to individuals rather than tribal collectives.
28. In 1883, the Native Land Court investigated titles to the Te Taitapu and Wakapuaka blocks, and Rangitoto (D'Urville) Island which had been excluded from earlier Crown purchases. Kurahaupō iwi were principally represented at the Native Land Court by Meihana Kereopa. In the Te Taitapu title investigation he and other Kurahaupō witnesses claimed a non-exclusive customary right based on ancestral connection and ongoing occupation. Their evidence was disputed by other iwi. Although some judges recognised that conquered peoples remaining in occupation of their land after 1840 retained rights, the Native Land Court decided in the Taitapu case that rights of conquest as at 1840 – supported by occupation – were sufficient proof of exclusive ownership. The Court did not recognise that Kurahaupō had recovered and revived the exercise of their rights in this block. Kurahaupō began presenting their claim for Wakapuaka to the Native Land Court for Wakapuaka immediately after the Taitapu hearings. However they withdrew their claim before the Court had made its decision, and did not press any claim for Rangitoto despite both blocks being within the tuku of Tutepourangi.
29. After the Court had heard all the evidence for Taitapu, Kurahaupō began presenting their claim for Wakapuaka. However they withdrew this claim before the Court had presented its Te Taitapu decision.
30. In 1892 the Native Land Court determined beneficial interests in the Nelson Tenths reserves. The Court again based its decision on the view that rights of conquest as at 1840 – supported by occupation – were sufficient proof of exclusive ownership. Kurahaupō iwi did not accept that this decision or the Te Taitapu decision was correct. In 1977 the remaining tenths were vested in the Wakatū Incorporation. Kurahaupō continued to be excluded as beneficiaries.

SILNA

31. The insufficiency of the reserves set aside in 1856 and 1860 caused great economic hardship for Kurahaupō over many years. Throughout the 1870s and 1880s South Island Māori sent a number of petitions to the Government arguing that they had insufficient land to live on. In 1886 the Native Minister established a Commission of Inquiry to report on Marlborough Māori. Commissioner Alexander Mackay identified 168 Kurahaupō individuals who were landless.
32. Mackay was also asked to identify available lands that could be set aside to provide for landless Māori in the South Island. Mackay's inquiry lasted many years. He ultimately recommended that Te Tau Ihu landless Māori be given 40 acres each, even though he recommended higher amounts for another iwi. In 1897 the Commission had reported that 6,111 acres had been allocated to 191 Māori in Te Tau Ihu some of whom were in occupation. In 1897 Mackay also noted that 6,442 acres had been set aside for a further 175 landless Te Tau Ihu Māori at Tennyson's Inlet near Pelorus Sound.
33. Mackay's work on Marlborough landless Māori then merged with investigation of other South Island landless Māori. The result was the establishment of the Landless Natives Commission that operated from 1897 until 1905. In its final report the Commissioners identified 4,064 South Island landless Māori and recommended the allocation of 142,118 acres of land to those individuals. The blocks initially allocated for Te Tau Ihu Māori were: the Whakapoai (Heaphy River); Te Mapou and Te Raetihi (Croiselles), Miritu Bay, Edgecombe and Endeavour Inlet (Queen Charlotte Sound); Tennyson's Inlet blocks (Pelorus Sound) in the northern South Island, as well as the Port Adventure block on Stewart Island.

34. The South Island Landless Natives Act was passed in 1906 to facilitate the provision of titles to those identified as being landless. A large quantity of land was proclaimed pursuant to this Act in 1908. However, the process of allocating much of this land to individuals was never completed. Some of the unallocated blocks including the Port Adventure and Whakapoai, blocks had been intended for members of Ngāti Kuia, Rangitāne and Ngāti Apa.
35. Most of the land ultimately allocated was remote and unsuitable for cultivation. By the end of the nineteenth century little good land was left in Crown ownership, and the Crown was not prepared to purchase land for landless Maori. A later judicial inquiry described this process of providing land to landless Māori as a 'cruel hoax.'

Draft Crown Acknowledgements

The draft acknowledgements below are subject to further discussion between Kurahaupō and the Crown:

1. The Crown's failure to adequately investigate the customary rights of Kurahaupō iwi before granting land to the New Zealand Company meant that it failed to actively protect the interests of Kurahaupō iwi and was a breach of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.
2. The Crown failed to adequately protect the interests of Kurahaupō iwi when it arranged the completion of the New Zealand Company's Nelson purchase and did not establish a process in a timely manner that ensured these Kurahaupō iwi received the full consideration, including a share in the tenths, for this purchase. This was a breach of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.
3. The Crown acknowledges that:
 - it failed to deal with Kurahaupō iwi in its negotiation of the Wairau purchase;
 - it did not deal with all the Kurahaupō iwi in its Waipounamu purchase and did not acquire all the Kurahaupō iwi interests it later treated as purchased; and
 - those Kurahaupō iwi the Crown did negotiate with were heavily pressured into giving their consent; and
 - the Crown failed to set aside adequate reserves for Kurahaupō iwi.

The Crown acknowledges that these failures were in breach of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.

4. The Crown failed to ensure that Kurahaupō iwi were left with sufficient land for their present and future needs and this failure was a breach of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.

ATTACHMENT TWO

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL REDRESS

1. The Deed of Settlement (and Settlement Legislation where necessary) will provide for the following financial and commercial redress.

Quantum

2. The quantum to be paid under the settlement is $30.65 million.
3. The quantum to be paid on Settlement Date will be $30.65 million, less the value of the on-account payments identified in paragraph 4, and less the market value of any commercial redress properties selected for transfer on Settlement Date.

On-Account Payments

4. Upon this Offer Letter being signed by both parties, the sum of $2 million will be payable by the Crown to Kurahaupō as an on-account payment. In addition to the $2 million, the Crown will pay an amount equivalent to simple interest on the $2 million, at the official cash rate, for the period between 24 October 2008 and the date upon which this Offer Letter is signed by both parties. These payments will be deducted from the quantum to be paid to Kurahaupō on Settlement Date.
5. If this Offer Letter is not converted into a Deed of Settlement, the Crown will take these on-account payments into account in any future settlement.

Interest

6. The Crown will pay to Kurahaupō on Settlement Date interest on $24.25 million for:
 - a. the period between the date of the signing of this Offer Letter by both parties and the date of the signing of the Deed of Settlement, subject to that Deed being signed within two years of the date the parties sign the Offer Letter; and
 - b. the period from the date of signing of the Deed of Settlement to (but excluding) Settlement Date.
7. In the event that the period identified in paragraph 6 is more than two years, then unless otherwise agreed the Crown will be required to pay interest for no more than a two year period.
8. The interest payable under paragraph 6 will be calculated based on the official cash rate, will be non-compounding and will be subject to normal taxation law.

Commercial Redress Properties

9. Paragraphs 10 to 25 are subject to paragraphs 26 and 27.

Property Lists

10. The property lists in Attachments Five, Six, Seven, and Eight are draft lists and are therefore subject to further discussions with Kurahaupō and final confirmation from the Crown that the properties listed are available. The Crown will undertake that investigation process in good faith. In the event any property is not available, the Crown will be under no obligation to substitute that property with another property but will, in good faith, consider alternative properties that may be available.

Commercial Properties with Cultural Associations

11. The Crown will gift to Kurahaupō on Settlement Date commercial properties with cultural associations selected from Table 4 of the Attachment Three and/or the lists attached as Attachments Five and Six. Kurahaupō may select for gifting properties with a combined market value of up to $5 million.

Commercial Properties for Purchase

12. Kurahaupō may select any of the properties listed in Attachment Five for purchase on Settlement Date.
13. The market value of the properties to be purchased under paragraph 12 will be deducted from the quantum to be paid to Kurahaupō on Settlement Date.
14. The valuation date to apply to all of the properties selected under paragraphs 11 and 12 will be either the date of the signing of this Offer Letter by both parties or the date of the Deed of Settlement, on the condition that a Deed of Settlement is signed within two years of the signing of this Offer Letter.
15. If a Deed of Settlement is not signed within two years of the signing of this Offer Letter by both parties, the valuation date will be updated to current market value.
16. Kurahaupō will also have a right of deferred selection for any of the properties listed in Attachment Five that are not selected for gifting or purchase at Settlement Date. This right of deferred selection will be for three years from Settlement Date. The valuation date for the properties selected under this right of deferred selection will be the date upon which notice is given that Kurahaupō seeks to purchase a property.

Commercial Properties for Purchase and Leaseback

17. Kurahaupō may select any of the properties listed in Attachment Six for purchase and leaseback to the Crown at Settlement Date. The purchase and leaseback will apply to the land only, and not the improvements on the land.
18. Kurahaupō may also request that up to three properties selected for purchase and leaseback under paragraph 17 include the improvements on the land. The Crown will make all reasonable endeavours to ensure that the improvements associated with up to three purchase and leaseback properties are made available.
19. The market value of the properties to be purchased under paragraphs 17 and 18 will be deducted from the quantum to be paid to Kurahaupō on Settlement Date.
20. The valuation date for the properties selected under paragraph 17 and 18 will be the date of the signing of this Offer Letter by both parties, on the condition that a Deed of Settlement is signed within two years of that date. If a Deed of Settlement is not signed within two years of the signing of this Offer Letter by both parties, the valuation date will be updated to current market value.
21. Kurahaupō will also have a right of deferred selection for purchase and leaseback for any of the properties listed in Attachment Six that are not selected for purchase and leaseback at Settlement Date. This right of deferred selection will be for three years from Settlement Date. The valuation date for the properties selected under this right of deferred selection will be the date upon which notice is given that a property is selected.

22. The terms applying to the leaseback to the Crown for any property selected will be negotiated and agreed between the relevant Crown agency and Kurahaupō as part of the preparation of the Deed of Settlement.

Right of First Refusal

23. Kurahaupō will have a right of first refusal over the properties listed in Attachment Seven for a period of 169 years from Settlement Date.
24. The terms of this right of first refusal will be agreed between the parties as part of the preparation of the Deed of Settlement.

Commitment to Explore Purchase and Leaseback

25. The Crown will also explore the availability of four non-core Crown properties listed in Attachment Eight for purchase and leaseback. For the avoidance of doubt, the Crown has commenced discussions with the relevant non-core Crown agencies for these properties, and a number of complex and difficult issues have been identified. These issues will have to be resolved if these properties are to become available for purchase and leaseback.

Agreement Process for Commercial Redress Properties

26. Following the signing of this Offer Letter by both parties, the Crown and Kurahaupō will work with the other two mandated Te Tau Ihu groups to agree a process for the selection of the commercial redress properties between the three groups.
27. For the avoidance of doubt, the Crown will require evidence that there has been agreement between the three mandated Te Tau Ihu groups on the selection process and allocation of properties before any commercial redress property may be selected (whether for transfer on Settlement Date, for purchase and leaseback, under deferred selection or under the right of first refusal).

Redress in Lieu of Crown Forest Licensed Land Redress

28. Kurahaupō iwi are claimants to Crown forest licensed land under the Crown Forestry Rental Trust Deed. The parties have agreed that, in lieu of receiving Crown forest licensed land redress, the Crown will provide the following redress:
- a. a payment on Settlement Date of $3 million;
 - b. a payment on Settlement Date of an amount equivalent to three-eighths of the accumulated rentals (held by or payable to the Crown Forestry Rental Trust) associated with the Crown Forest Licensed Land in Te Tau Ihu;

Coastal Statutory Acknowledgements

- 21 The Crown offers to provide statutory acknowledgements over coastal areas of significance to Kurahaupō. Coastal statutory acknowledgements are to be finalised after this Offer Letter is signed.
- 22 In accordance with the regional approach adopted for Te Tau Ihu the Crown proposes that Kurahaupō nominate proposed areas for coastal statutory acknowledgements and discuss these areas with Tainui Taranaki and Ngāti Toa. Coastal statutory acknowledgements nominated by the three mandated groups may overlap.

Place Name Changes

- 23 The Crown invites the three Te Tau Ihu mandated groups to work together on a joint list for submission to the New Zealand Geographic Board/ Ngā Pou Taunaha o Aotearoa, to be processed under the usual statutory provisions followed by the Board. Where such proposals extend into the Ngāi Tahu takiwā, the Crown requests the Te Tau Ihu mandated groups also discuss the proposals with Ngāi Tahu. The Crown will then submit the list of proposed changes to the New Zealand Geographic Board/ Ngā Pou Taunaha o Aotearoa for its consideration.
- 24 The Crown will not consider any proposal to change the name of the Heaphy Track, unless it is a joint submission from all South Island iwi.

- a. will not affect the lawful rights or interests of a person who is not a party to the Deed of Settlement; and

8. Unless otherwise specified, the Governance Arrangements will be responsible following transfer for the maintenance of the Commercial and Cultural Redress Properties, including any future pest control (including flora and fauna), fencing, interpretation material, required biosecurity responses, and removal of refuse if required.
